

CHARGED TO THE IRISH.

Two Outrages Which Are Exciting England Today.

Extensive Preparations Made by Incendiaries to Fire Liverpool.

Linen Infected With Small Pox Sent to Politicians' Wives.

LONDON, April 2.—Intense excitement is caused in Liverpool by what, it is alleged, is another Fenian outrage. This morning the police found a Springfield loaded warehouse flooded with spirits, the bungs having been removed from all the casks. There were preparations which had evidently been made for the purpose of setting fire to the liquor, and thus starting a conflagration which would have been terribly disastrous in its effects. There are many other spirit warehouses in immediate proximity to the one where the incendiary attempt was made, and had any fire reached them, almost the entire business section of the city might have been destroyed before the flames could possibly have been stayed. It was about 7 o'clock when the discovery was made, and the police were first attracted to the place by the suspicious movements of two men on the opposite side of the street, who were closely watching the warehouse, and were in turn watched by police officers on the beat.

An Outrage Which Is Charged by the Press to the Fenians.

LONDON, April 2.—Great indignation is expressed by the afternoon papers here today over the discovery made on the train from Bristol this morning. A number of time-ontenched bundles were taken off the Cork steamer and placed in the baggage van. After the train had proceeded a short distance, the bundles were taken out, and one of them was found to contain a quantity of smallpox virus. The bundles were taken out by medical experts and found to be parcels of linen infected with smallpox. They were taken out by medical experts and found to be parcels of linen infected with smallpox. They were taken out by medical experts and found to be parcels of linen infected with smallpox.

LIBERAL BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

BERLIN, April 2.—An election for a member of the Reichstag for Stralund took place on Sunday, and the event excited great attention. The Liberal party, which has been the ruling party for the last sixteen years returned. The latest returns of the voting indicate the election of the Liberal candidate, by a majority of 1,000. The result is all the more significant, as the entire official candidature of the Liberal party was defeated. The election was rendered necessary by the appointment of Count von Behr Negendank to the Reichstag.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST PLOTS.

Strong Guards Put on Duty All Around London.

LONDON, April 2.—On account of the steady stream of letters containing threats of death and destruction of buildings, which continue to be received by prominent persons and government functionaries, the previous precautions against the execution of those threats are not remitted, and new ones are being devised and carried out. This morning the streets were carefully guarded against surprises, and none but known and trusted hands are allowed on the premises.

OTHER FOREIGN NEWS.

Rights of Aliens in India. CALCUTTA, April 2.—An organization, to be known as the European and Anglo-Indian Defence Society, has been formed here for the purpose of securing the rights of Europeans and Anglo-Indians in India. The immediate efforts of the society, however, will be devoted to the preservation of the rights of the European community, and to the defeat of the bill which permits the entry of whites by native judges in certain cases.

To Look for Suspects in America.

LONDON, April 2.—Three constables from Balla, Ireland, have gone to America in quest of Hyne and Vahay, who are suspected of having murdered Frederick in June, 1880. The crime created a great sensation at the time, as it was believed to be a political murder. The arrest of twenty-six persons last week in New York, who were charged with complicity in the murder revived recollections of the crime.

Embezzling a Million Francs.

LONDON, April 2.—A despatch to the Central News from Brussels reports that a sensation has been caused in Belgium by the arrest of a man named Van Damme, a prominent stock broker, who has embezzled the sum of 1,000,000 francs, belonging to persons who deposited their money with him. Van Damme has been arrested and lodged in prison.

Five Assassins on Trial.

ROME, April 2.—Five men, who are charged with attempting to take the life of Sig. Cocca-peller, the noted Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, have been placed on trial here. The case is a brother of the man who was executed under the papal government for causing an explosion in the Sicilian barracks.

Organizing a League in Australia.

LONDON, April 2.—A letter from Melbourne has been received from a man named William Redmond, who has gone to Australia to organize the Land Leaguers in that country. Mr. Redmond reports that he has been successful beyond all expectation, and that the Leaguers are beginning to be organized on account of his visit.

Dissolving the Reichstag.

BERLIN, April 2.—The Reichstag is made in well-informed quarters in this city that Prince Bismarck under consideration the propriety of dissolving the Reichstag on account of the opposition of that body on the 31st inst., should it continue refractory on the question of the bill providing for the increase of military pensions.

Sixty-five Persons were Killed.

PARIS, April 2.—Later accounts of the boiler explosion at St. Denis yesterday show that the number of persons killed and injured was much larger than at first reported. Thirty-one persons were killed outright. The number of injured, it is now estimated, reaches 34. Many of them, it is feared, are fatally hurt.

Why the Melvins Left the Gunaraders.

LONDON, April 2.—It is now learned that the retirement of the Melvins from the Cunard Steamship Company has no reference to the preparation of the annual report of the company. The Melvins considered that the management of the company at Liverpool, they should be entrusted with larger powers than the board was willing to give them.

Probable Changes in European Cabinets.

PARIS, April 1.—It is reported that M. Tirard will, within a day or two, resign the ministry of finance, and that Leon Say will succeed him. It is also stated that owing to the ill-health created by the war of the Schleswig, the minister of the interior, M. de Freycinet, will be obliged to resign, and that General Campon will succeed him.

Cladstone's Reply to Parnell.

LONDON, April 2.—P. M.—In the House of Commons Mr. Gladstone in reply to a question, said Parnell's statements made in Paris respecting the Kilmainham treaty are inaccurate.

Young Love That Grew Cold. NEW HAVEN, March 30.—Charles H. Hilton petitioned in the Superior Court today for divorce from his wife, Laura M. Hilton. He married her in 1870, and she was a pupil in the high school. The marriage was kept a secret, and the girl's mother knew nothing of it, until the summer of 1871, when she discovered the fact. She then kept her daughter in the high school, and the girl's mother knew nothing of it, until the summer of 1871, when she discovered the fact. She then kept her daughter in the high school, and the girl's mother knew nothing of it, until the summer of 1871, when she discovered the fact.

STOPPING A FUNERAL SERMON.

A Young Lady Faints Because of a Preacher's Aspersions.

NEW YORK, April 2.—A Washington despatch says Rev. Jonathan Blanchard, president of Wheaton College, Illinois, is preaching a funeral sermon there yesterday over the remains of a young man who in life had been a prominent member of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Knights of Pythias and Independent Order of Mechanics, made some remarks in denunciation of secret societies. The sister of the deceased, who was present, became very much excited over the language of the preacher, especially for the reason that it is the request of the family the society of which her brother had been a member was conducting a general, with society history. She fainting, and had to be carried from the church amid some excitement. Her husband, a young man, also fainted, and she was carried home. The sister of the deceased, who was present, became very much excited over the language of the preacher, especially for the reason that it is the request of the family the society of which her brother had been a member was conducting a general, with society history. She fainting, and had to be carried from the church amid some excitement. Her husband, a young man, also fainted, and she was carried home.

OVER AN EMBANKMENT.

A Locomotive and Five Coaches Containing 127 Passengers Tumble from the Rails—Fifty-three Injured.

CINCINNATI, O., March 30.—A terrible accident occurred early this morning on the Cincinnati Southern railroad, five miles from Williamstown, Ky. As the train turned a curve the locomotive and five coaches tumbled from the rails, and the train was broken up. The locomotive and five coaches tumbled from the rails, and the train was broken up. The locomotive and five coaches tumbled from the rails, and the train was broken up. The locomotive and five coaches tumbled from the rails, and the train was broken up.

ONE OF THE LONGEST PASSAGES.

The Ship Else Over One Hundred Days Coming From Liverpool.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The German ship Else, Captain Fennekahn, now in from Liverpool, had one of the longest passages on record. Her voyage from Liverpool to New York was 100 days. The ship was driven back by storms to Liverpool, and she was driven back to Liverpool. The ship was driven back by storms to Liverpool, and she was driven back to Liverpool.

IN MALE ATTIRE.

A Strange Girl Who Puts on Boy's Clothes and Travels Around.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 2.—A girl now living at the City Hospital a young girl whose life has been a singular one. When the train on the Iron Mountain road arrived from Little Rock last night some of the passengers called the sergeant of police to their aid. They found a girl in the car who had fallen from the train and been hurt. The sergeant of police took her to the hospital, and she was found to be a girl in male attire. She was found to be a girl in male attire. She was found to be a girl in male attire.

BURIED UNDER WHITE MOUNTAINS.

Some Big Snow-Drifts in New York State Which April Snows Must Melt.

Papers printed in the northern part of New York tell of a snow-drift which has been found in the Adirondacks. The snow-drift was found in the Adirondacks. The snow-drift was found in the Adirondacks. The snow-drift was found in the Adirondacks.

Died in a Buggy Beside His Wife.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 2.—A young man died in a buggy beside his wife. The young man died in a buggy beside his wife. The young man died in a buggy beside his wife.

Actor Emmet's Queer Confession.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Actor Emmet has had a queer confession to make. He has had a queer confession to make. He has had a queer confession to make.

Death of a Queen Cause.

RICHMOND, Va., April 2.—Yesterday a young man named Oser died from the effects of swallowing lead shots taken to cure boils. In swallowing the shots he was killed. The young man was killed by the shots. The young man was killed by the shots.

Snow and Hail in Tennessee.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 2.—A hail storm prevailed yesterday, followed by heavy snow throughout the southern part of the State of Tennessee. The hail and snow were very heavy. The hail and snow were very heavy.

Don't Die in the House.

"DON'T DIE IN THE HOUSE," "Rough on Rats," "Clears out rats, mice, flies, roaches, bedbugs, 10¢

ONE BILLION OF DOLLARS.

Counting the Contents of Uncle Sam's Big Pocket.

How Great Piles of Yellow Metal and Huge Rolls of Bank Notes Will Be Handled.

All Because Mr. Wyman Supercedes Mr. Gilfillan as Treasurer.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon James Gilfillan gave the books of his office and the keys of the vaults of the treasury to a committee of three, whose duty it is to count the contents of the vaults. The committee is composed of Mr. Wyman, Mr. Gilfillan, and Mr. Gilfillan.

EMELINE MEAKER.

The Woman Who Was Hung in Vermont Friday.

How She Brutally Killed Her Sister's Child in the Spring of 1880.

Her Son Commanded to Assist Her and the Part He Took.

WINDSOR, Vt., March 28.—The State prison roll of executed murderers in Vermont since 1870 is a long and black one, and includes the names of Ward, Melville, and Carr. On Friday the name of Emeline L. Meaker, the Waterbury child murderer, was added to the hangman's list. This is the first instance of a woman being executed in this State since the execution in 1808.

On the morning of April 23, 1880, the village of Waterbury was thrown into intense excitement by the discovery that a dreadful murder had been committed within its limits, the victim being Alice Meaker, and the murderers Emeline Meaker and her son, John Meaker.

The Meakers were small farmers, living on a few acres in the outskirts of the village, and near the town of Duxbury. Horace Meaker, the head of the family, was about 45 years of age, very deaf, and of somewhat limited intelligence. His wife, Emeline, is about five years younger than her husband, is of a sullen, morose temper, and a perfect virago. Louis Almon Meaker, the son, is about 20 years old.

He is an uncouth, uneducated young man, and with mental faculties much below the average. The remaining member of the household, little Alice Meaker, was the daughter of a deceased brother of Samuel Meaker. After the death of her father she and her young brother became a charge to the family. Her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school. Alice was left at home, and her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school.

On the morning of April 23, 1880, the village of Waterbury was thrown into intense excitement by the discovery that a dreadful murder had been committed within its limits, the victim being Alice Meaker, and the murderers Emeline Meaker and her son, John Meaker.

The Meakers were small farmers, living on a few acres in the outskirts of the village, and near the town of Duxbury. Horace Meaker, the head of the family, was about 45 years of age, very deaf, and of somewhat limited intelligence. His wife, Emeline, is about five years younger than her husband, is of a sullen, morose temper, and a perfect virago. Louis Almon Meaker, the son, is about 20 years old.

He is an uncouth, uneducated young man, and with mental faculties much below the average. The remaining member of the household, little Alice Meaker, was the daughter of a deceased brother of Samuel Meaker. After the death of her father she and her young brother became a charge to the family. Her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school. Alice was left at home, and her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school.

On the morning of April 23, 1880, the village of Waterbury was thrown into intense excitement by the discovery that a dreadful murder had been committed within its limits, the victim being Alice Meaker, and the murderers Emeline Meaker and her son, John Meaker.

The Meakers were small farmers, living on a few acres in the outskirts of the village, and near the town of Duxbury. Horace Meaker, the head of the family, was about 45 years of age, very deaf, and of somewhat limited intelligence. His wife, Emeline, is about five years younger than her husband, is of a sullen, morose temper, and a perfect virago. Louis Almon Meaker, the son, is about 20 years old.

He is an uncouth, uneducated young man, and with mental faculties much below the average. The remaining member of the household, little Alice Meaker, was the daughter of a deceased brother of Samuel Meaker. After the death of her father she and her young brother became a charge to the family. Her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school. Alice was left at home, and her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school.

On the morning of April 23, 1880, the village of Waterbury was thrown into intense excitement by the discovery that a dreadful murder had been committed within its limits, the victim being Alice Meaker, and the murderers Emeline Meaker and her son, John Meaker.

The Meakers were small farmers, living on a few acres in the outskirts of the village, and near the town of Duxbury. Horace Meaker, the head of the family, was about 45 years of age, very deaf, and of somewhat limited intelligence. His wife, Emeline, is about five years younger than her husband, is of a sullen, morose temper, and a perfect virago. Louis Almon Meaker, the son, is about 20 years old.

He is an uncouth, uneducated young man, and with mental faculties much below the average. The remaining member of the household, little Alice Meaker, was the daughter of a deceased brother of Samuel Meaker. After the death of her father she and her young brother became a charge to the family. Her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school. Alice was left at home, and her mother, Emeline, was taken care of by the Sisters of Mercy at Burlington, while the son, Louis, was sent to a boarding school.

On the morning of April 23, 1880, the village of Waterbury was thrown into intense excitement by the discovery that a dreadful murder had been committed within its limits, the victim being Alice Meaker, and the murderers Emeline Meaker and her son, John Meaker.

The Meakers were small farmers, living on a few acres in the outskirts of the village, and near the town of Duxbury. Horace Meaker, the head of the family, was about 45 years of age, very deaf, and of somewhat limited intelligence. His wife, Emeline, is about five years younger than her husband, is of a sullen, morose temper, and a perfect virago. Louis Almon Meaker, the son, is about 20 years old.

He is an uncouth, uneducated young man, and with mental faculties much below the average. The remaining member of the household, little Alice Meaker, was the daughter of a deceased brother of Samuel Meaker. After the death of her father she and her young brother became a charge to the family. Her mother, Emeline, was taken care

BRIC-A-BRAC.

April.
Door-keeper of the year—
April, the opener—hear!
We wait without, and cry to thee,
With the sunshine's golden key
Open to us straight!

Slayer of winter, art thou here again?
Oh, welcome, thou that bring'st the summer night!
The bitter wind makes not thy victory vain.

Thou first redresser of the winter's wrong!
—[William Morris.

A bursting into greenness.

▲ sense of renovation,
 Of freshness and of health,
 ▲ casting off of sordid fear,
 A carelessness of wealth,
 ▲ gush, a flash, a gurgle,
 A wish to shout and sing

—[H. G. Adams.

The hills have doffed their crowns of snow,
The streams again flow free;
The welcome winds of April blow,
And in the tasselled mantle hang.

With rushing winds and gloomy skies
The dark and stubborn winter dies;
Far off, unseen, spring faintly cries,
Bidding her earliest child arise.

—Harvard Taylor.

Call forth the greens, and wake the rising flowers;
When opening buds salute the welcome day,
And earth, relenting, feels the genial ray. —[Pope.

And circus fires are kindling one by one;
Sing, robin, sing!
I still am sore in doubt concerning spring.
—[Anon.

Love wakes anew this throbbing heart.

I see the summer glow,
And, through the wild-piled snowdrift,
The warm rosebuds below.
—[Emerson

My garden is a vanished dream:

And yet—I know not how—
 My flowers will hear the dropping rain
 When spring reneweth hill and plain,
 And then it shall be mine again;
 It is God's garden now.
 —[Rose Terry Cooke.

The polished steel of skate and sled grows brown—
In damp disuse while ice and snow retreat;
And rusted spade and hoe are taken down—

But March and May must quickly kiss and part,
And May's sweet breath on his bide lips turn rime;
She cannot warm old winter's icy heart—
Nor with one kiss of March make sweet spring-time
—[William C. Richards.

Now bidding summer's softest zephyrs rise,
 Anon recalling winter's stormy gale,
 And pouring from the clouds her sudden hail.
 —(Henry Kirke Waite,

Will issue from their silent sleep;
And soon along the barren field,
The sower's voice shall greet with cheer
The comforts that the earth shall yield,
The coming harvest of the year.

Far in the sunny South she lingers,
Yet slowly comes along,
With fairy garlands in her fingers,
With snatches of sweet song,
Her eyes with promise are beaming,
Her smiles will rapture bring.

Earth is a wintry clod
But spring wind, like a dancing psaltress, passes
Over its breast to waken it: rare verdure
Buds tenderly upon rough banks, between
The withered tree roots and the cracks of frost

Like chrysalids impatient for the air;
The shining dais are busy: beetles run
Along the furrows; ants make their ado;
Above, birds fly in merry flocks—the lark
Soars up and up, shivering for very joy.

A Downy on the Instalment Plan.
One cannot only buy everything from a cook stove to a coffin on the weekly or monthly payment plan, but a Detroitier has applied the prin-

"Well, if Mary is willing and shall not object, I intend to give her $10,000 as a dowry."

"What a noble and generous father!" gasped

tinued the latter; "instead of giving her the sun in a lump I shall pay her $3 per week. That will not only preserve her from speculation and loss but it will come much easier for me."

April the first stands mark'd by custom's rules,
A day for being, and for making fools;
But pray, what custom, or what rule, supplies
A day for making, or for being, wise?

The fol-low-ing ex-pe-ri-ments are sim-ple and ea-sy, and any lit-tle boy can do them, and make the home cir-cle right live-ly.

ures baby in set up a bowl, and helmer Nurse nor Ma-ma nor Sister Helen nor Grand-ma nor Sister Kate will be A-ble to Find where that Drat-ed pin is. Of course when the Doc-tor finds the Thread you can either Lie out of It or prove an Al-li-ht.

Le-na's Cat into Sis-ter Hel-en's Room, stain his Mouth with Red Ink, and gum a fea-ther from the Can-a-ry to His Nose. Then you can take the Bird from its Cage and sell it to the Junk Man a-round the cor-ner for six-ty-five Cents, ta-king

Some morning when Sister Kate is in the Parlor tuning the Ban-jo, pour a little Am-mo-nia or pepper sauce into her A-quar-um. Wl-thin an

"When Your Wife's Out of Town,"
[New York Life.]
Of all the insidious

Than the snare to a man with a wife out of town.
He feels such a delightfulness,
Stay-out-all-night-fulness,
Shall I eat, drink & fulness—

What will you take?—ishness,
Next-day's-headache-ishness,
None can explain!

His wife may be beautiful,
Tender and dutiful—
Yet not that her absence should cause him to fret.

Scatters his scruples as day scatters night.
With a take-every-trick-ishness,
Full-as-a-tick-ishness,
I'll-be-a-brick-ishness,
Though conscience frown;

American Fables.
[Detroit Free Press.]

"John Henry, you have taken $500 of my money since January."

"Oh, no! Previous to January I took $800 of your money and bought wheat, and my profits have been so large that I can return all your money and have enough left to buy a race horse. But for my honesty you would have never known

The Wife of a Peasant who was in the habit of borrowing her Neighbor's Coffee Mill, one day broke the article beyond repair, and when her husband came in she cried out in Despair: His one Coffee-mill is broken!

"Ah! but you are indeed a poor Financier!" replied the Husband. "Send the remains home by the servant girl and get mad at the Lady. Then you will not be expected to pay damages and she will be able to replace it!"

